REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD

We hereby submit the ninety-seventh annual report of our schools to the Dublin School District.

We do not propose to make a very minute report, as Mr. Averill, our Superintendent, can do it much better.

It has been an exceptionally hard year to maintain schools, with scarcity of teachers and sickness. However, we have been fortunate in having good teachers in all schools, with the exception of No. 5, where we had to change teachers, having now Miss Sargent, who is most satisfactory.

We are also fortunate in having Drawing and Music teachers that are giving very satisfactory work.

Medical Inspection has been introduced this year for the first time, Dr. Childs having taken each school and scholar, and made a thorough examination, and his report is on file.

On July 13, 1918, your Board, with their council formally took over into their possession the new school house and proceeded at once to equip it with necessary blackboards, desks, etc., and succeeded in getting it ready for the fall term, with the result that we feel entirely satisfied to date.

We submit the following estimate of amount of money it will require to raise for the payment of statutory obligations of the district for the ensuing current year.

Amount required by law	$2,527 50
Additional	800 00
High School tuition	500 00
School officers	150 00
Medical inspection	25 00
To finish, pay extras and grading on new school house	500 00
For interest, maintenance and fuel	1,000 00
Making a total	$5,502 50

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

TO THE BOARD OF EDUCATION, DUBLIN, N. H.:

I hereby submit my seventh annual report as superintendent of schools.

For the school year ending June, 1918, five different schools were maintained in the district for an aggregate number of 179 weeks, or an average of 35.8 weeks. The whole number of pupils registered for the year was seventy-eight. The average membership was 62.5. The average attendance was 54.1. The percentage of attendance was 87. This low percentage is due in part to the severity of last winter's weather and in part to the impassability of the roads during several periods of the winter because of the unusually large amount of snowfall.

The total membership since last September together with the list of this year's teachers is shown in the table below:

Grammar School, 13 pupils	Teacher, Miss Cora I. McKellips
Primary School, 20 pupils	" Mrs. Ethel S. Hawkins
School No. 2, 12 pupils	" Miss Ruth B. Wightman
School No. 3, 23 pupils	Miss Harriett G. Wightman
School No. 5, 10 pupils	Mrs. Grace Carlin and Miss Amy B. Sargent

The new school building was ready for occupancy in September. Both teachers and pupils were delighted with the new accommodations which seem to be all that could be wished for. In addition to the boiler room and toilets the basement provides a large playroom for the use of the children during inclement weather. On the main floor are two commodious schoolrooms, two recitation rooms suitable for manual training, domestic arts or any other of the constructive activities which employ the muscles as well as the mind. There are warm cloakrooms, and last but not least a small room equipped with running water, wash basin and toilet appliances, thus providing an opportunity for continuous training in personal cleanliness, unquestionably the most important of health habits. The school rooms are abundantly lighted and a hot air furnace supplemented by steam radiators and a ventilating shaft enable the janitor to furnish the rooms with a constant supply of fresh air heated to the proper temperature at all hours of the day. The building is architecturally attractive, advantageously located on a small eminence, and when the front area is suitably graded, seeded down as a lawn and ornamented with a few trees and shrubs, will be most worthy of the just pride of two generations of the taxpayers, the townspeople and the school children of the town as well as an object of beauty to every passerby.

School attendance has been interrupted by the prevalence of influenza which necessitated the closing of the schools for three weeks in the month of October.

Arrangements were made with the Keene normal school to provide supervisors of drawing and music. We were unable to get these teachers in September. The closing of schools in October further delayed the supply. On November first, however, the work was started under the direction of Miss Hazel M. Elwell in music and Miss Caroline Marston in drawing. They make their weekly visits on Tuesday.

Thrift is an economic virtue in which all children should receive judicious instruction. Thrift means more than the present saving to secure an accumulation for future spending. It means rather to lay by regularly and persistently from present income some part as an insurance for future emergencies, and so to scrutinize present expenditures as to get the largest permanent results from such expenditure. The home is the best place for such instruction. The school, however, can co-operate by encouraging the pupils to save their pennies and by bringing to their attention many examples of saving as a foundation of future competence. The children in the grammar school under the stimulation of both home and school have during the past year invested $1010 in Thrift Stamps and Liberty Bonds.

SCHOOL GARDENS

School-home garden projects have become a part of the educational activities of the schools, not only in this State, but in all the states of the Union. Last year 32,000 pupils in the schools of New Hampshire enrolled in the Army of Junior Food Producers. The products of their gardens were valued at $100,000.

This year the Junior Food Producers are to be a Division of the United States School Garden Army. This recognition will bring to each pupil enrolled direct assistance in the form of a large number of leaflets prepared by Dr. Weed, the regional director, on special phases of garden work. While gardening this year is important for its educational significance, it is also important because it furnishes a way by which pupils may help our country to meet its obligation to furnish 20,000,000 tons of food material to the stricken countries of Europe.

The aim this year is to secure an enrollment of 50,000 pupils and a production of $250,000 worth of food material.

I trust that the school children of Dublin will undertake these projects with the enthusiasm which they have shown in other projects and that the parents and other friends of the school will give all the encouragement and practical aid in their power to the end that 100% of our pupils over nine years of age shall enroll and plant a garden.

The projected gardens are small and are planned in the following standard sizes:

Grade III	10 ft. by 20 ft.
Grades IV, V	20 " " 20 "
Grades VII, VIII (girls)	20 " " 40 "
Grades VII, VIII (boys)	50 " " 100 "

While these gardens are as large as the average pupil is likely to care for, yet any pupil who desires so to do will be encouraged to take a garden of the next larger size.

The teachers are conducting their work with energy and enthusiasm and as a whole are capable and efficient.

Respectfully submitted,

ANDREW P. AVERILL.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING

"In public art education we should have consideration for the capacities and needs of the many rather than the talents of the few, with faith in the potentialities of all."

It is my desire to make the course in the schools an art education that should meet the needs of the child in his every day life; that should have for an ultimate aim the providing of the child with ideals and capacity for knowing and enjoying true beauty as found around him in nature, dress and home, and for expressing himself in such education.

Owing to the fact that the art supervision was not commenced until November, I will give a short report of the work accomplished in these few months and seek to give the general plan of the work for the school year.

In the lower grades the usual holiday projects appropriate to the season and used for possible gifts were made in November and December. The primary and intermediate grades are now at work upon the general plan which in these grades is confined almost entirely to such work as will cultivate in the child the power of accurate observation, stimulate imagination and give him power to express such ideas by muscular hand control. This may be accomplished with such mediums as plasticine, paper, colored sticks, printing sticks, crayons, chalk and ink in such work as the representation of toys and objects of the home and school in paper cutting, crayon or ink;—the illustration of daily experiences, myths and stories by paper cutting, paper tearing, modelling in plasticine and by stick figures;—and the elementary study of design instilled by experiments in various arrangements showing rhythm in stick printing. Appreciation through picture study plays a huge part toward the above aims in the young child.

The work of the upper grades is planned to influence the child's daily life through a comprehensive study of color, representation, design and picture study so that as he is called upon to express his taste in his dress and in his home that expression may be a joy to himself and to those around him.

Much interest is being shown in the making of a calendar, the picture of which is the result of the study of landscape composition in flat tones printed from a linoleum block.

The work for the remainder of the year will cover the study of the principal color harmonies, their presence in nature and application to fabrics, design and pictures. Illustrative cut paper posters, correlated with geography civics and history have already been begun. The object drawing will call for the study of fore-shortening and perspective.

The return of spring affords new inspiration in color and as the work in nature is closely related to design, the specimens will be made to serve toward this end.

Basketry and weaving will find a place in the manual training.

Picture study in these grades serves greatly to stimulate ideals of fine color, spaces, sculpture and architecture.

I wish to express my appreciation for the kind help and co-operation of the superintendent; also for the cordiality and interest of members of the school board. The co-operation and enthusiasm of the teachers and representative attitude of the pupils have given much pleasure in my art supervision in the Dublin schools.

Respectfully submitted,

HAZEL M. ELWELL.

REPORT OF MUSIC SUPERVISOR

The object of public school music is twofold: first, to create in the child a love and an appreciation of beautiful music; and secondly, to enable the child to produce beautiful music for himself.

In order to obtain these results, the best that there is in music must be given to the child, from the very beginning. Many rote songs are taught in the first three grades, which provide the child with a musical vocabulary of the best songs for children. Principles of tune, time, and theory are introduced in the first grade and increasing in difficulty, continue through every grade. Books are introduced in the third grade.

Outlines have been given to each teacher, of the work to be accomplished in tune and time principles, in her particular grades during the year. And, at the completion of the eighth grade, all the fundamentals necessary for reading and interpreting music are covered.

By the use of the victrola the eighth grade enjoys the first steps of music appreciation, which tend to make them better listeners and lovers of the very best music, and acquaint them with music forms, and the instruments of the orchestra.

With the hearty co-operation of each teacher the standard of each child and each school shall be raised, in spite of the fact that this is a year in which school work has been greatly interfered.

Respectfully submitted,

CAROLINE E. MARSTON.
